DEDICATION

KP singlehandedly takes the role of a cheerleading squad.

We love her infectious smile!

The 2012-2013 Hallmark is dedicated to the one and only Kody Partridge, lover of rhetorical devices, expert of literary allusion, springer of handsprings. Kody devotes her thoughtful consideration to our essay drafts and even more to us. For her 5am lesson planning and frequent attendance at arts performances, we are better students and better people. Thank you, KP!

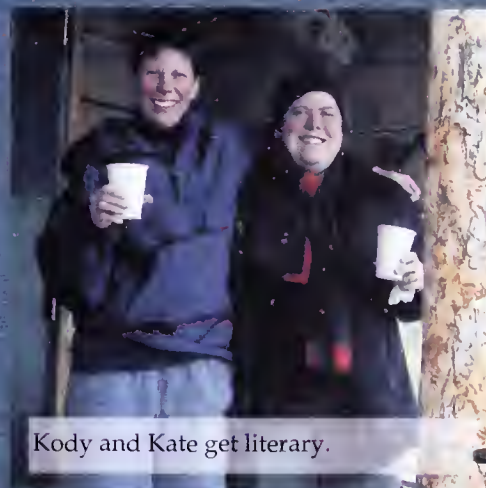

It's hard to believe - but KP has really grown up!

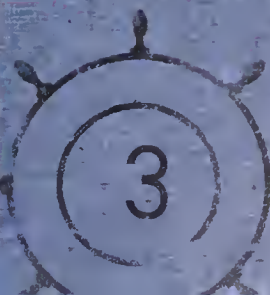

KP when she was young like us!

Can you find Kody in her third grade class?

Kody and Kate get literary.

Interim 2011-2012 was amusing and full of excitement. With a diverse selection of trips, students got to choose from a activities that combined education with explaration. Students traveled as far as China and stayed as clase as Salt Lake City. Other trips included Hawaii, Yampa River, Mantreal, Hiking Highway 12 in Southern Utah, Spain, and the classic Oregon Caastal Adventure. Students had relaxing but action-packed trips where everyone experienced new things.

FALL AT ROWLAND

Fall was a time for gathering together as a community and getting serious about school. From the all school convocation, the annual canned food drive, and Half Day/Whale Heart, we all worked hard to make our world a better place. Our fall sports teams were successful and the students still found time to have fun during Spirit Week and the Beyond the Classroom car racing.

The Aloha Stamp started the school year off with a nice beat. There was a great turnout of people at the stamp, which emphasizes the enthusiasm of this year's student body. Teddy Janes, Ariel Feola, and Katie Hayashi were the DJ's of the event. Even though there was a outlet shortage and a few minutes without music the stamp was a success. As the saying goes in Hawaiian: Mahalo nui loa na ha'alaule'a me la kua.

Below from left to right: Vera Zanker, Caterina Brunelli, and Qianyu Lin pose on the walk up the hill at convocation. Mathew Jackson plays music during his half day of service project. Thomas Bebbington follows through his golf swing at practice.

The Rowland Hall community gathered at the McCarthy campus to celebrate the start of a new year with another successful convocation. Trace Browning led us in the singing of our school song and Alan Sparrow spoke about the importance of our vibrant community at Rowland Hall. After walking up the hill from the Lincoln campus, we sang, danced, celebrated, prayed and socialized together. This year's convocation really helped us all prepare for another year of learning and fun.

BACK

Last year, MiaBella Brickey wasn't able to attend the all-school convocation due to heart surgery. This year she had made a remarkable recovery and we all celebrated her return.

The high school senior class continued its tradition of high-fiving the first graders while the band played at the conclusion of convocation.

FRESHMAN TRIP

The annual ninth grade trip to Kanab, Utah, was an exciting trip filled with sand and laughter. The freshman class enjoyed spending time at the dunes, eating good meals, and the infamous bus ride to the lunch site. They used their academic skills in many of their activities. They collected plants for the biology plant presses and wrote an essay for English. The students were also able to volunteer at Best Friends Animal Sanctuary, providing a safe environment for the animals. One of the most fun activities was enjoying each others' company at the dunes, which consisted of boarding off and rolling down the dunes. After returning to the campsite, the students played games and pulled pranks. Overall, everyone had loads of fun on the trip and made memories that will last a lifetime.

SPIRIT WEEK

Heather Ernst dresses up as Juno.

Spirit week of 2012 will not be forgotten. Thanks to the Spirit Squad and liveliness of the students, the week was filled with enthusiasm and creative costumes. On Monday, sports day, die-hard fans like Linda Hampton, who represented the Kansas City Chiefs, wore their jerseys. On Tuesday, nerd day, people sported black-rimmed glasses and high waist pants. On Wednesday, the classes split up by colors, with the senior class having the best turnout. On Thursday, the halls were filled with movie characters like Tinkerbell. And finally, on Friday, decades day, there was a great turnout of hippies and housewives that showed just how much spirit our school has.

HALF DAY WHOLE HEART

Jaden Lessnick is ready to work and models this year's Half Day Whole Heart shirt.

The tenth anniversary of Half Day-Whole Heart was a huge success. Students participated in various community service projects throughout Salt Lake City. The student body contributed over 700 hours of service, ranging from planting trees to delivering food boxes.

The list of the groups we worked with this year:

- Utah Animal Adoption Center
- Utah Food Bank: Delivery and Warehouse
- Tree Utah
- Guadalupe School
- Project Linus
- Children's Center
- Crossroads Urban Center Thrift Store
- Good Samaritan Project
- Heart & Soul
- Hildegard's Pantry

CANAPALOOZA

Kate Smith sings her heart out!

Every year, Rowland Hall holds Canapalooza, a musical performance dedicated to collecting cans for the school's food drive. Canapalooza is unique because it offers a creative and talented cast of Rowland Hall students and faculty. From the Upper School Chorus, to Griffin Robillard, the students put on a lively and entertaining performance! Organized by Ally Larcom, Canapalooza 2012 rocked the Larimer center! If you didn't go this year, you absolutely must go next year!

The talented duo of Katie Hayashi and Aben Czajkowski!

Surprise of the night! Jessie Barker was a highlight of the show.

BEYOND THE CLASSROOM

Liz Paige explains Project 11 to the junior class.

Beyond The Classroom is a great chance to let students express their creativity and actively participate in the community. The variety of activities are based on the grade-level, the freshman and sophomores had an experience learning outside of traditional means. While the freshman were on their class trip, the sophomores made their own cars in order to understand the force of gravity. The junior class, on the other hand, focused on a larger-scale cause in the community with specific organizations. Then, the seniors designed and attended a two-and-a-half week internship that fit their interests and skills. Beyond The Classroom has proven to be successful as a program and will hopefully stay this way throughout the years to come.

Sofia Gorder, Michelle Rasich, Liz Paige, Sarah Tobin, Fiona Halloran, and Mary McIntyre enjoy all of the commotion of this experience.

The sophomores smile proudly behind their car creations.

ANNIE

This year's production of Annie was unlike any performance Rowland Hall has put on. At the last minute, the cast and crew were faced with an unexpected challenge when a cast member was unable to perform. However, Mr. Lindemann, stepped in to play the role of Oliver Warbucks. Though he held a script, he did a wonderful job performing alongside his students. Rehearsals started in the summer, all to prepare for three final performances this fall. Their hard work was clearly seen in this fantastic production; both cast and crew put on a great performance.

The full cast of Annie take their bows at the end of their first performance.

FALL BAND CONCERT

From left to right: Jack Veverka plays a solo on the keyboard. Matt Browning plays some upbeat jazz on his trumpet. Hazel Staten focuses on her guitar solo.

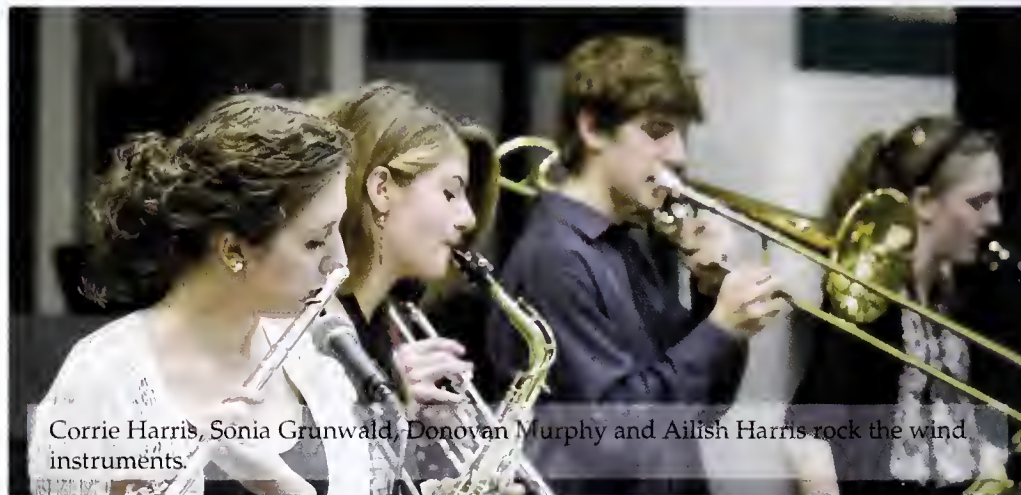

The upper school band had a great beginning of the year, producing delightful music all fall. With a strong team composed of students from the middle and upper school, the band worked hard to create music. They first performed at Canapalooza, playing several collaborative songs. Their next big event was the Fall Band Concert, where all the students worked together to produce a great show.

Ailish Harris, new to the upper school band, plays the saxophone.

SOPHOMORE PRAXIS

Rea Lee and Yina Kim display their creative Praxis poster.

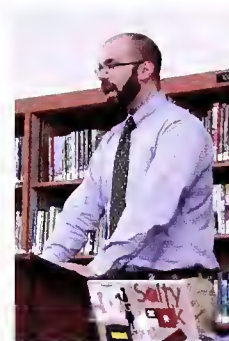

This year, the sophomore class started a new project called Praxis led by Dr. Taylor and Mr. Kogan. The students had a choice to make a debate, a panel, or a poster from the Renaissance or Enlightenment time period. This event was held all morning in the library on December 12th. The students had a great time and learned a lot about their topic and their classmate's subjects as well. Overall, it was a great success!

INTERACT CLUB

Ryan Westermann, Lila Thulin, Abi Hill, Eleanor Layfield, and Leigh Hunt are the Board Members of the Interact Club.

This year Rowland Hall's service club, Interact, focused on the charity ----. Throughout the year they did many projects including selling hot cocoa and gingerbread in December, having weekly trips to the Guadalupe school and putting together their annual dinner. This year's Interact president was Lila Thulin with Vice President, Ryan Westermann.

From left to right: Abi Hill and Leigh Hunt have fun selling hot cocoa for bottle schools. Abi Hill and Eleanor Layfield cook for war veterans and their families at the Fisher House. The Interact Club has great success in their gingerbread and hot cocoa sale.

Coach Mikee Shackelford, baby Lucas, Corinne Sugino, and Ethan Arsht celebrate their qualification to the Tournament of Champions.

Rowland Hall's policy debate squad has had another year of competitive success! The nationally competitive team travelled all across the country, giving up weekends and sometimes the entirety of summer for debate. The top team, Corinne Sugino and Ethan Arsht, qualified to the Tournament of Champions, the most prestigious tournament on the high school circuit. Mike Shackelford says, "What can I say about the policy squad? I wish I was them." The policy team has been very successful so far this year and will definitely see further achievements. Go, fight, win!

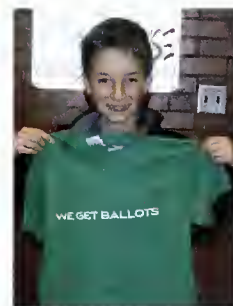

The policy squad (top to bottom, left to right): Mike Shackelford, Cory Abdalla, Cameron Ballard, Ethan Arsht, Corinne Sugino, Harry Aaronson, Sasha Uchitel, Jaden Lessnick, Aaron Friedman, Elliot Kovnick, Sophia Nielsen, Sam Sanders, Chase Pope, Harry Stone, Camila Reed-Guevara, Julia Goldman, Claire Wang, Ling Ritter, Emily Sundquist, and Sam Lemons.

This year, Amnesty Club had a very good turnout, over 30 students signed up to be a part of the action. They hope to beat last year's record of over 400 cards signed to prisoner's of war, which happened at the annual Holiday Card Action. They look forward to continuing more service to the international organization.

NEW FACULTY/STAFF

This Year we were lucky enough to welcome three new staff members to the Rowland Hall community. Christy Whitman joined the main office staff, Nate Kogan took residence in the History department, Kathy Gunderson and Katherine Potter teamed up in the admissions office. To get a better idea of what they looked like when they were young, we asked for an old picture from each of them so you can see a "then and now" comparison.

Christy Whitman now and then. Christy has been a huge help this year in the Rowland Hall office as registrar.

We welcome Katherine Potter as she joins the admissions office.

This year the girls' volleyball team has done remarkably well. Coached by Kendra Tomsic, Kathy Howa, and Lauren Carpenter, the team was able to achieve the best season seen in years. The team's five seniors, Shelby Matsumara, Kiersten Cutler, Breanna Johnson, Ikwo Frank, and Abeni Czajkowski were at the top of the pack and led the team through thick and thin. There have been many memorable moments throughout the season. Senior night against South Summit was a particularly excellent showcase of the team's talents, and Rowland Hall came out with a 3-0 win. Swing for Life was also a highlight resulting in another 3-0 triumph for the girls. Going into State competition, the team was feeling confident and prepared, but unfortunately Beaver High School took the win with a 3-1 score. Overall, the season ended with 7 wins and 3 losses, an impressive feat. This outstanding record allowed the girls' volleyball team to be recognized as 2nd in the region.

CROSS COUNTRY

This year's cross-country team has been as successful as ever! For the first time, the team placed in the well-known Bob Firman race in Boise, taking home a trophy for the girls' team. The boys' team performed well at pre-Region, with Ryan Westermann and Eli Oftedal tying for second place. The girls team brought home the Region trophy. And Coach Mark Oftedal led the team to success at State, with the girls taking first and the boys second. What an impressive performance!

The girls' tennis team had a successful season, taking state and sweeping regions. Madeline Foley, our number one singles player, was undefeated all year. Kaitlin Ramsey took the 2nd singles title in region and state, and Scout Swenson took her fourth region and state championship for 3rd singles. Caili Chung and Mia Chase took region and battled hard at state but lost in the semi-finals. Angela Foley and Hollis Mills played a long, hard three-set match at region and won as well as another intense and long match at state, winning in a tiebreak! Seniors Madeline Foley, Kaitlin Ramsey, and Scout Swenson will all be missed by the team. As a goodbye and congratulations gift, a rendition of Billy Idol's hit song "White Wedding" was performed by coach Tim Sleeper.

Rowland Hall's boys' golf team, under head coach JZ Davis, took 2nd place in the 2A State Tournament. Shortly before their 2nd place finish at State, the team won the 2A Region title. The team out shot Waterford at the Region Tournament by a single stroke to take home 1st place. "It was an uphill battle for the team, but a challenge we were willing to conquer," said senior Kyle Cowdrey regarding to the State Tournament outcome. "Beaver had posted some very low scores before state, but we had the home court advantage. We played the state course, Rose Park golf course, as often as possible," said fellow senior Hank Shipman. This year's State Tournament was especially important to the three senior players, because it was their last tournament in a Rowland Hall uniform. "All of us invested a ton of time in the sport for the well being of the team. We played as well as we could and left the team knowing that we all left it all on the course. It solidified all of my four years spent on the team, and it was an amazing feeling to walk away with 2nd place at the State Tournament," said team member Joe Diehl.

A ROWLAND HALL

This winter saw fog, air pollution, cold temperatures and snow. That didn't stop our students from having a great time. Our sports teams heated it up on the court and in the pool. The winter is also a time to buckle down and work hard in class. To top it all off, we enjoyed socializing at dances, in the halls, and at sporting events.

CHRISTMAS GIVEAWAY

Sophia and Caroline Nielsen give their time to the giveaway. Stacks of butter wait to be claimed. A Rowland Hall parent helps to move boxes into the school.

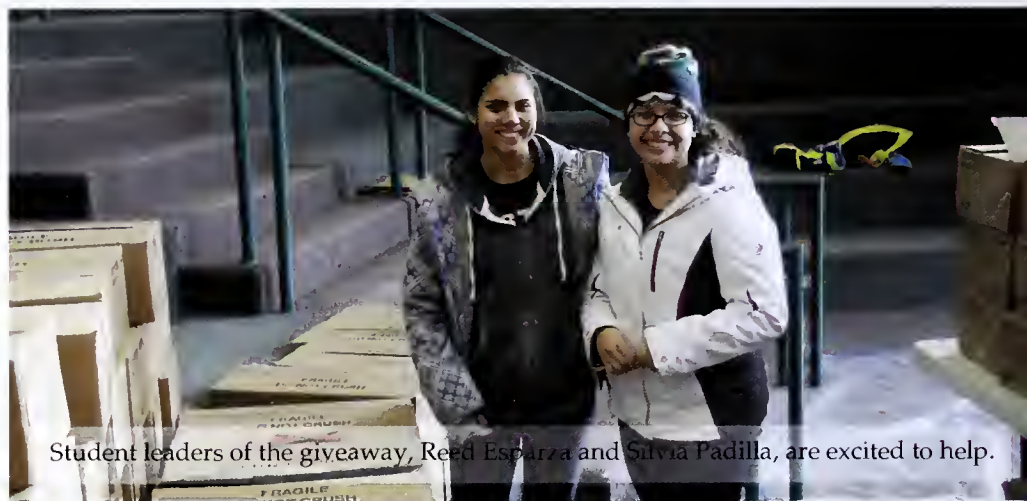

Rowland Hall's annual Christmas giveaway was a success like always and distributed food to over 3,000 people. This is the 17th year Rowland Hall has participated in it, collaborating with the Crossroads Urban Center to provide holiday meals for families across Utah. Rowland Hall contributed over 800 hours of service in this event. Liz Paige commented: "I love this event as families volunteer together, students of all ages, alumni and faculty. For many the giveaway has become a family and holiday tradition that they do annually."

What do you get when you put together twenty-two actors, more than forty dancers, and a dog named Toto? The Wizard of Oz remake! On March 1st and 2nd, the Rowland Hall Middle and Upper School Dance Company and Theater brought back Oz like never seen before. This was not a musical, nor was it a traditional rendition of The Wizard of Oz. It was a fusion of dancers and actors, collaborating on stage with nothing but themselves. Performed on a blank stage, the performers used their body language and facial expressions to tell the story.

Left to right: Cowardly Lion, played by Louis Fisher and Tin Man, played by Drew Chortkoff, discover the Wizard of Oz, played by Mae Rodgers. One of the most active parts of the school's community is Student Council. From organizing dances to overseeing Battle of the Classes, they are an essential behind-the-scenes component of what makes our school function throughout the year. Student Council was hard at work even before the school year began, organizing the new student orientation as well as the famous Aloha Stomp that welcomes everyone back. The Student Council also managed the canned food drive as well came up with fun days for Spirit Week. Along with planning an outstanding Winter Formal and a much anticipated Prom, Student Council works hard to satisfy the needs of the students. It is certain that the school would not be the same without the efforts of the council, and the 2012-2013 group is a winning combination.

YEARBOOK

Liza Badenhause, Georgia Larsen, and Ava Pecora collaborate on the Winter Formal yearbook page.

The Yearbook Staff at Rowland Hall spends the entire school year putting together the annual yearbook. Everyone on the staff works to create and design a book that encapsulates the year. Each page captures a unique part of the school year. From taking photos to laying out pages, the entire class works collaboratively editing and writing. All their hard work finally pays off when the most anticipated publication is finally produced.

NEWSPAPER

Fashion columnist Peishen Zhou does his classic pose.

In addition to designing the yearbook, the staff in Publications produces a monthly newspaper. The Rowland Hall Gazette highlights each month's news and also incorporates some features about what is happening in the Salt Lake City community. LBJ inspires students and helps layout the final publication. From "Style by Peishen" to opinion pieces about Kudos, the newspaper covers it all. With the help of the editors, Gaby Rosenada, Aurora Stone, and Claire Wang, the Rowland Hall Gazette features the most exciting part of every month.

My Dream About Lord

Sometimes I move slowly,
It is frosting that suspends friction
And scrabbling toenails from rubbing decomposing asphalt rotating legs can push with automated precision
But attrition will melt them down to the curved bones
Other times we move,
Bobbing in cold,
drops rolling off of hardened skin
Oily whales repelling and pushing forward
Washed up
On the beach
We melt into sand descending through the cracks
until water stops the advance
Warmed as layers shed
—Sam Ball

Beyond academics, Rowland Hall students have proven themselves to be talented artists, able to sculpt, paint, write, sketch, and photograph. This page features the creative achievements of students in and out of school in literature, painting, photography, and sculpture. Congratulations to the Rowland Hall artists on their amazing work!

Lemon Tree

My bare shoulders and calves sticking
To the clammy leather of the dark green coat
As one leg slipped over the edge landing a
Bare sole on the cool wood floor
My chest rose and fell with weight heavy on my Breastbones. The glass door stood ajar the warm
Wind blowing through the screen as the ceiling fan clicked.
Click, click, click.
I rolled over, my skin un-bonding from the moist Surface of the couch. Sitting beside my left thigh was
A light blue bowl of lemons.
The ones that grow on the twisted tree outside Growing along the brick wall. My grandmother's Wrinkled hands picked them as she stood on sore feet Supported by banded knees. I held the basket over my head
And she dropped the perfect lemons into it
Only the perfect ones
Vibrant orangey skin, juicy sour meat, a curved oval shape
Only the perfect ones.
I reached into the bowl, picking a lemon and sling into
It with a knife. I carved out a wedge, holding it in the palm
Of my hand. I dipped it in the sugar, coating it with white
Crystals of sweetener, sinking my teeth into it.
Lemon juice slid down my forearm and I took my tongue, Licking the pulsing droplets. I leaned my head back against
The headrest. My hair falling across my neck, gold necklace
Shining in the sunlight. This is summer.
Summer under the shade of a lemon tree.

DEBATE

Rowland Hall's debate team has continued to succeed in all its divisions! Senior Scott Silverstein is the Lincoln-Douglas captain. Kyle Cowdrey and Alex Ho, public forum captains, have received one qualifying bid to the Tournament of Champions. The policy debate captains, seniors Ethan Arsht and Corinne Sugino, got their third bid. Coach Mike Shackelford says of the debate team, "They get ballots." Let's wish the team luck for the rest of the season. Go, fight win!

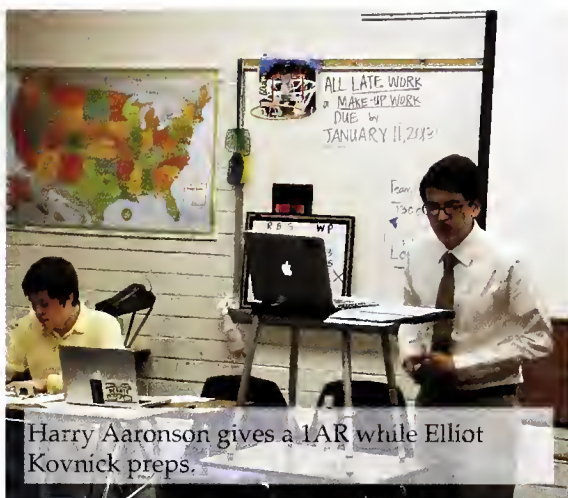

Corinne Sugino makes Glenbrook South debater Ben Wolch cry in cross-ex.

Alex Ho and Kyle Cowdrey prep in an intense round.

Harry Aaronson gives a 1AR while Elliot Kovnick preps.

Julia Goldman goes for timecube and Cameron Ballard is thankful that he doesn't have to give the 2AR.

CLUBS

Abi Hill and Leigh Hunt run the Interact booth at annual club fair.

The Spirit Squad supports the girls' volleyball team.

Claire Wang, the president of Sign Language Club, demonstrates how to sign.

This year we had many successful clubs and organizations. Some clubs were philanthropic and service oriented, while others were strictly for fun. There were bake sales, food drives, and Interact dinners all to raise money for the clubs and their causes. French Club saw Le Mis, Spirit Squad rallied students with new cheers and T-shirts, and money was raised for horses.

THANK YOU!!!

There is no possible way the yearbook staff could produce this book without the help of others. We had generous support from students who took time to help edit, design, and photograph. We had professional photographers and office staff helping us make sure we didn't make too many mistakes, and we had parents who kindly shared their treasured photos. Thank you all for your support!

Ben Smith put many hours into making this book possible. Carlyn Ausbeck also assisted him on the portrait section, senior ads, and the overall design.

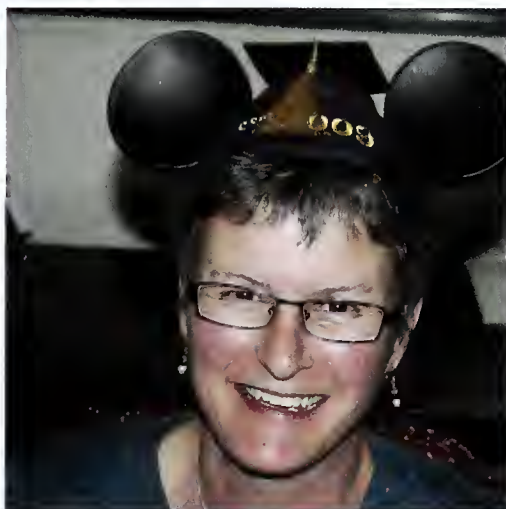

As the school Historian, Abeni Czajkowski performed her duties of capturing the year through her photographs.

Connor Nelson secretly assisted with our design and helped edit several pages.

Leigh Hunt was our secret editor, helping us communicate better and, quite frankly, making the whole book work.

Angela Tooze helped immensely with Mr. Smith's bookkeeping.

Julie Shipman photographed sports and Rowmark.

Stuart Ruckman photographed plays, performances, and the Dance Company.

Every page was edited for accuracy by Linda Hampton.

DANCE COMPANY

The Rowland Hall Dance Company took modern dance to a new level in this year's performance, Co:lab. Collaborating with other arts programs such as Rowland Hall's band and choir, the U of U Architecture Department, Tibetan art, the Dance Company pushed their own creative limits. The mix of different mediums of art presented a new and creative way of looking at modern dance. The Dance Company lowerclassmen had an opportunity to choreograph their own pieces for the Food for Thought concert and upperclassman shined during the Senior Concert. Congrats to our amazing dancers!

SWIM TEAM

Above: Angela Foley and Leigh Hunt cheer on their relay.

The swim season spans two trimesters during which the team prepares for their individual races and team relays for a chance at the state swim meet. Through dedicated practice and preparation, the swim team has had a successful season with the girls' team of eight placing 3rd overall at the 3A region meet as well as several top individual finishes! Good luck to Ally Moore, Julia Sanderson, Lachlan Murphy, Leigh Hunt, and Haley Fort at the upcoming Utah State swim meet, and congratulations on a fabulous season!

BOY'S BASKETBALL

This year, the boy's basketball team represented Rowland Hall as they stormed across the state. With just three senior players and a new coach, Mr. Aaron Hinton, this year was unlike others. The varsity team scored points all season and brought home great results. The freshmen and junior varsity teams also performed well and are ready to step up to the challenge for next year. Go winged lions!

Malik Adams makes a sweet three-point shot!

Rowland Hall's girls basketball team had a successful year. The team played undefeated for a majority of the season and battled till the end. With four wonderful seniors guiding the team, Meagan Hall, Abeni Czajkowski, Cari Sanyer, and Shelby Matsumura, the girls gave it their all and made Rowland Hall proud. The team also had a junior varsity and freshmen team that worked hard all season. The girls bonded throughout the season and their teamwork showed! With shining freshmen players like Sara Matsumura, there is no doubt that the excellence will continue on.

From left to right: Peishen Zhou flashes the peace sign at a home game. Roary, the Lion, excites the crowd. Candice Nkoy and Shelby Matsumura chest bump before a game. Sara Matsumura goes for a lay-up.

This year marks Rowmark Ski Academy's 31st year! The racers have continued to improve their abilities on the ski hill and have become some of the best downhill ski racers in the country! Congratulations to the senior Rowmarkers: Bella Andreini, Bryan Cookson, Anna Jobe, Breezy Johnson, Carl Noble, Griffin Robillard, Hunter Stuercke on their successes!

FAREWELL, HAYES

Peter Hayes has been a part of the Rowland Hall community for 17 years. Students will cherish many memories with Mr. Hayes from his time here. Providing his students with memories such as the Desert Dozen, the Scorpion Dance, funny mnemonic devices and puns, and study tactics, there is no doubt that Mr. Hayes will be missed. Also known for his adventurous and enthusiastic attitude, Mr. Hayes has a great love of the outdoors, as shown by his passion for teaching and river guiding pictured here. Hayes has accomplished many things in his life, inside the classroom and out, and he will continue to accomplish many more. He plans to expand his passion and focus more on his art work. Peter Hayes will truly be missed.
